ACCEPTED DESIGN FOR NEW ABBOT VILLAGE SCHOOLHOUSE.

LOCAL NEWS.

Members of the Andover Seminary have accepted missionary appointments in Maine for the summer as follows: E. S. Ellis, Springfield; O. E. Hardy, North Andover; A. P. McDonald, Outer Long Island; A. M. McDonald, Jackman; H. W. Pringle, Isle au Haut.

Mark W. Williams of the Senior class of the Seminary has accepted a call to Mitchell, S. D., and will begin work in July.

Punchard School closes Thursday, June 23, the graduating exercises to be held in the afternoon, and reception in the evening with music by the Andover Orchestra.

Lieut. A. V. Wadhams will deliver his lecture on "Life Aboard a Man of War," in the Town Hall, Boxford, on Tuesday evening, June 14, at 7.30. This lecture is in aid of the furnishing fund of the Town Hall.

Miss Anna Christie, daughter of Rev. T. D. Christie of Turkey, is staying at the home of Mrs. Robinson on Bartlett St. She has come to pursue her course of education.

Officer J. Warren Moore was called by J. T. Lovejoy, Tuesday evening, to take care of a man who had been hanging around his place. He was hopelessly intoxicated, being unable to tell who he was, where he belonged, or where he was going. He said he had been drugged and that somebody had gone through his pockets and taken five dollars. He was brought to town and lodged over night at the police station, where he gave the name of Doran, and said he hailed from Lawrence. He was allowed to go Wednesday.

Friends of Rev. F. B. Makepeace of Springfield were glad to welcome him on his visit to town during the past week. He was accompanied by his daughter Eva. Sunday morning he preached a very interesting sermon in his former pulpit at the Free Church.

J. A. Dennison has been admitted to membership in the Lawrence Canoe Club.

Marcus M. Hill has accepted a position as clerk at the Glen House, White Mountains for the summer. He will be there after June 24.

Rev. A. D. Smith, quite well known here, has resigned the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church, in Bedford, N. H.

The Andover Band gives its second concert in Ballardvale next Wednesday, and in town a week later.

Harry F. Noyes of Trenton, N. J., is enjoying a visit with his parents on Park Street.

William Charnley has a new advertisement this week which will probably interest the ladies.

Among the names received as sustaining members for the Lawrence Hospital for the months of April and May are noticed the following from Andover: Mrs. J. H. Flint, Mrs. James B. Smith, Mrs. H. H. Tyler, Mrs. Geo. Ripley, Mrs. R. B. Mills, Mrs. Peter D. Smith and Miss S. W. Smith.

Prosser H. Frye is in town visiting at the home of his parents on Elm Street.

Next Sunday will be a busy one. Besides being children's Sunday, with special observances, there will be two baccalaureates. In the morning at 10.30 by Rev. W. G. Sperry to the graduating class of Abbot Academy at the South Church, and in the afternoon at 4.30 by Prof. W. J. Tucker to the graduates of the Seminary.

The Andover Band gave its first concert of the season in Elm Square, Wednesday evening. There was a very large number of spectators including many from surrounding places. The electric cars were crowded all the evening and several extras and trailers were run to accommodate them. It is estimated that over 600 came on the cars. The concert was much enjoyed by all, the selections being well rendered. It lasted about an hour and a half and was fully appreciated. It is the intention of the band to give a concert at least every two weeks. The electric lights are a good addition.

The House of representatives voted Wednesday to refer the Bennett Endowment order bill to the next General Court. Our representative, James B. Smith, voted against such action.

Dr. C. E. Abbott attended the meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society in Boston, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The graduating exercises at Abbot Academy on Tuesday began at 9 A. M. in the school hall followed by the vine planting in the grove, and address at the South Church at 10.45. The alumnae meeting is at 2.30 P. M.

In observance of children's Sunday at the Free Church next Sabbath, the pastor will preach to the children in the morning, and in the evening at 6 o'clock there will be a Sunday School concert.

Mrs. Libbey and daughter, Mrs. Handy and Miss E. L. Handy have gone to Six Mile Falls, Me., for the summer months.

Several coaches have been engaged of W. H. Higgins for use at the ball game to-morrow.

The annual Draper reading occurs in Abbot Academy Hall to-night.

There was a pleasant reception at the residence of Prof. D. Y. Comstock Wednesday afternoon.

Who, in passing by the estate of Peter D. Smith on the West Parish road, has failed to notice the beautiful rhododendrons, which grow and blossom in a large and beautiful cluster on the lawn? If there is any one who has in the least any interest in flowers and their beauty, he or she should take the opportunity to see this handsome display. Such a grand lot as this, it is difficult to find in many places and it cannot be duplicated in town. This, with the many other beautiful flowers which flourish there, would make a visit worth any one's time.

Hon. Hamilton A. Hill and family of Boston, who have been in the habit of spending at least part of the summer here, are now occupying the Handy residence on Main St.

A good time is promised all who attend the strawberry festival conducted by the Punchard Alumni Association in the school hall to-night. The Andover Orchestra and Phillips Mandolin Club will appear.

Prof. D. Y. Comstock is to give three illustrated talks on Rome within the next three weeks in Phillips Academy Hall. Some three hundred views will be shown, some of which cannot be duplicated in this or other countries. It is a grand opportunity for any interested in this subject.

The remains of Elizabeth H. Russell of Winchester were brought to this town for interment in the South Cemetery last Saturday. She died last week Thursday at the age of 88 years. Deceased was a sister of Sarah A. Higgins who resides on High Street, and was quite well known by many of our older residents.

The members of the Garfield Club, L. I. A., are meeting with good success in the sale of tickets for their strawberry festival in A. O. U. W. Hall next Friday evening. A good entertainment consisting of vocal and instrumental music will be given and plenty of strawberries and ice cream will be for sale. The proceeds are to be used toward purchasing a library for their room over Valpey's store. It is a worthy object and should be well patronized.

The principal topic of discussion this week is the base-ball game between Phillips Andover and Exeter to-morrow afternoon, and flaming posters in blue and red have announced the particulars this week. The game will begin at 3 o'clock prompt. The admission will be 50 cents, grand stand 25 cents, and carriages $1.00. The prospect now is that a very large crowd will be present. The teams are evenly matched and it looks now as if it would be a great battle between these two rival schools. We sincerely hope that Andover will complete her list of victories of the past year over Exeter by winning this.

Rev. Gardner S. Butler, formerly pastor of the Ballardvale Congregational Church, has resigned the pastorate of the church at Hill, N. H. to go to Three Rivers, Mass.

The membership list of the Niotus Club was increased by eight new names at a recent meeting. A second court is being covered with clay and will probably be ready for the tournament, June 17.

Mrs. P. T. Nickerson and two children are visiting her mother, Mrs. Tobey, at her home on the corner of Main and Morton Streets.

At the anniversary exercises of the Society of Inquiry, to be held at the Seminary Chapel Tuesday evening, June 15, addresses will be given by Messrs. W. B. Allis, M. W. Williams, C. F. Brown, and J. H. Denison, members of the society. There will also be special music for the occasion. The public are invited.

W. L. Frye, who has been employed at the Tyer Rubber factory for sometime, will sever his connection with that concern to-morrow, and on Monday will take the position of baggage master at the Boston & Maine depot, George Loud having secured a position elsewhere.

Several of our local dealers have put in a stock of blue and white ribbon in anticipation of to-morrow's game.

Prof. W. J. Tucker has been in Portland, Me., this week.

Fred Drown who has been engaged at Ledwell's barber shop has gone into business in Manchester, N. H. and moved his family there.

The annual social event in the career of the senior classes of Phillips Academy is the reception tendered to them by Principal and Mrs. Bancroft. The present seniors enjoyed this occasion last night in the spacious rooms of the new science building. There were also present the two upper classes of Abbot Academy and a few other invited guests from town. Prof. and Mrs. Graves assisted Mr. and Mrs. Bancroft in receiving. As usual, it was a very interesting and enjoyable occasion.

Wm. M. Wood and wife are in Minneapolis this week, Mr. Wood being an alternate from the fifth district to the Republican convention.

Mrs. Henry M. Wilson of Medford is visiting at Daniel Trow's, in West Parish, this week.

Rev. Varnum Lincoln supplied the pulpit at St. Paul's Methodist Church in Lawrence last Sunday.

District Deputy M. N. Howe, of Lawrence, will officially visit Indian Ridge Council June 15, and Council No. 65, June 24.

A four-horse barge, containing ladies and gentlemen from the John Street Congregational Church of Lowell, came here on Saturday afternoon last. The purpose was to pay a visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Colby of Salem Street. Among the party was the new pastor, Rev. Geo. H. Johnson, who was formerly a student at the Seminary. Mr. Johnson was installed Wednesday evening.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger of recent date has the following interesting item in regard to one of our former citizens:

"Lieutenant Commander Strong, who has been attached to the Philadelphia Schoolship Saratoga ever since she was mustered out of naval service and designed to educate young American tars, has been detached from the vessel, and, with the permission of one year's leave of absence, will sail for Europe on July 8th of this year. Lieutenant Commander Strong has always been a great favorite with the Saratoga boys, and his interest in the work of making young American sailors has led to splendid results. He has left the ship, and will at once make preparations for his trans-atlantic trip, returning again to the Saratoga at the expiration of his leave of absence."

The young boys evidently intend to enjoy the bathing facilities at Pumps Pond, and for this they have collected money sufficient to build a large and permanent diving board.

The public schools as a whole close June 24. Some, however, will have their closing exercises the day before.

The inventory of the estate of Julia J. Walsh, late of this town, was filed at Probate Court, Monday. The amount was $1785.

Forepaugh's circus visits Lawrence Thursday, July 14. This will be the only large circus there this season.

Antoine B. Saunders of the Hide and Leather Bank of Boston is enjoying a two weeks' vacation.

The frame is up for the new athletic house near the running track on the Hill.

It is rumored about town that Superintendent of Schools H. A. Halstead is to resign at the close of the present term.

The Board of Water Commissioners has at last succeeded in settling for the reservoir land by the payment of $1,375.

The second eleven will play the Merimack second to-morrow afternoon on the home grounds. The following have been selected to play: Callum, Boyle, Done, Coutts, Sullivan, Angus, Barrett, McDermott. The others will be chosen on the grounds.

The first team will go to Lawrence to battle with the Albions with the following men: Bruce, Low, Coates, Christie, Kydd, Millar, Saunders, Wilkie, Greig, Hetherington, Walker.

At the top of Page 1 to-day we present a very good cut of the proposed new Abbot Village schoolhouse. It is made from the plans prepared by architect W. P. Regan.

A Word with President Eliot.

The current number of the Journal of Education contains the argument of Rev. A. E. Winslow with President Eliot of Harvard College, who has been quite severely criticizing our public schools and to many of our readers who have been following up this question it will be found interesting reading. It is as follows, being addressed to Pres. Eliot:

The following inquiries upon a matter in which we have a common interest are made in a friendly spirit. You occupy a peculiar position before the public. Harvard University is the oldest, largest, and best-endowed of our educational institutions, and in the public mind you, as its head, are recognized as the University, and are supposed to speak therefor. Within six months, from one end of the land to the other you have assumed to speak upon public school matters with an authority and wisdom never before assumed by any man of recognized influence, and your statements are so at variance with all the hitherto assumed facts that the friends of the public schools who desire to believe both in you and in the schools are in a dilemma. The following are in substance a few of your positions concisely stated:

1. The public schools are working infinite mischief.

2. In Boston the best people have largely ceased to patronize the public schools, and the same will be true of all cities.

3. The private schools of Boston and vicinity have better teachers, better appointments, better appliances, and pay better salaries than the public schools.

4. In proof of the absolute destitution of appliances you assert that the public schools of Cambridge have but one globe.

5. The schools of Germany, France, and other European countries are much better than the public schools of America.

6. The children of European emigrants have a much better education than the children brought up in rural Massachusetts.

7. We pay our rural school teachers from $16 to $20 a month.

8. You pronounce Connecticut all right because the young men take an interest in the public schools.

Harvard teaches us that loyalty to the scientific method is indispensable in scholarship; that it is a weakness to accept any statement that is not founded upon hard facts; that it is unscholarly to speak as with authority upon any subject when we do not, or cannot, append the "schedules" of facts, scientifically selected, upon which such utterances are based. You have issued a large number of indictments, and in the interest of the scientific method some of the school men would like the "schedules" upon which you base these startling assertions.

1. In what way have you learned of the infinite mischief being wrought by the public schools? To what extent were you educated therein? Have you had children educated therein? Have you carefully visited primary, grammar, and high school grades? In what cities and states, and to what extent? If you base your statements upon testimony rather than upon observation, please name the witnesses that the public may know how much the testimony of the witnesses weighs. If upon public documents, please state what they are, that we may have an opportunity to get at the "original sources."

2. What are the means of determining to what extent the best people of Boston send their children to private school? Eliminating the parochial and commercial colleges from the problem, is there a larger proportion of Boston children in private schools than formerly? Is there a falling off in attendance upon the public schools in any section that is being built up by the wealthy and "classical" people? All the investigations that I have been able to make point in the other direction, and your line of investigation would be helpful.

3. What is the basis assumed in affirming the authority of the private school teachers? I am reasonably enthusiastic over our private schools, but I can find no justification for your assertions. Where can one get access to the pay-roll of private schools upon which you base your statement that their salaries are larger? From a somewhat large acquaintance with such teachers I do not know one whose pay is equal to that paid for similar work in the Boston public schools.

4. Is it quite fair to assert that other cities have no globes because Cambridge has but one? I know from personal knowledge that more than a thousand schools in New England have globes, and in many cities and towns there are not only globes for every grammar schoolroom but in some grades a globe for every child. Is it not true that, with few exceptions, no child in a city or village school has studied geography in Massachusetts in the past twenty years without having been taught from a globe? Are you quite sure that there is but one globe in the public schools of Cambridge?

5. To what extent have you studied the public schools of Germany and France? Admitting that the observations of no American would weigh more than your own, it is important that we should know to what extent you have observed the work compared to our primary, grammar, and public high school grades. When were these observations made? I have had the testimony of scholarly men wholly educated in the public schools of Germany and France, of men who have spent from eight months to three years in expert study of the schools, and their testimony all differs widely from your own; hence the interest in the extent of your studies. It is admitted that in some slight particulars there is advantage there, but you would hardly like to have Harvard University ranked by her teaching of logic, and it is no more fair to estimate our schools by a single weakness of that kind.

6. What in the world do you mean, what can you mean by the assertion that the children of European immigrants are better educated than those of the average rural school in Massachusetts? Do you pick the children of scholarly Germans who come here as professors, clergymen, chemists, or experts, and compare them with the neglected children of rural Massachusetts, or what do you do? Where are the recent immigrants that you have investigated?

7. Is it fair to give the West an idea that the salary paid a girl in a Mount Desert country school is the price paid the country teachers of New England?

8. What do you mean by speaking of Connecticut as having special cause for congratulation because of the "young men"? In what state are there relatively fewer? Is Massachusetts at a disadvantage? Is Boston? Do you realize how many young Boston grammar school teachers there are? Is there anything like it in any Connecticut city? Do you know how much young blood there is in the superintendencies of Massachusetts, and in the suburban cities?

Finally, as a sample test, the public schools of Cambridge sent to Harvard last year twenty-five candidates, not one of whom was conditioned, and the twenty-five took 125 honors in their examinations, nor was that an exceptional year for the public schools of globeless (?) Cambridge. Now, what private school has a better record? What private school is there in Somerville, Newton, or any similar city that has made any better record than the public schools of the same city? In short what are the facts, scientifically collected, behind these revolutionary assertions of yours? Do not the public schools of Massachusetts compare as favorably with those of Germany as Harvard compares with her universities? Let me not be misunderstood. No one knows better than the writer that the public schools are not perfect any more than are the universities and colleges, any more than are the churches and newspapers, and every friend of the public schools welcomes every criticism that is founded on fact, however severe the criticism may be, but we have been taught not to respect assertions that have not the facts behind them, therefore I say, in the kindest spirit, let us have the facts.

A. E. WINSLOW.

Voting for President.

The law for the arranging of candidates for electors for president and vice-president on the official ballot in this state in groups so that a person may vote the party national ticket by making a single mark upon his ballot, provides that the names of the candidates for electors shall be printed in groups upon the ticket, in two adjacent columns of equal width, with the name and residence of one of the candidates at large at the head of each column, and the name and places of residence, including the number of the congressional districts, of the other candidates following in numerical order of such districts.

The surnames of the candidates of each political party for president and vice president, with the party or political designation at the right of the names, shall be printed in one line at right angles with the length of the ballot, above the respective groups of candidates for electors. There shall be left at the right of the party or political designation a sufficient clear margin or square in which each voter may designate by a cross mark X his choice for electors; and no other clear margin or space shall be left in any such group of candidates. Such groups of candidates shall be arranged in the alphabetical order of the surnames of the candidates nominated for president. There shall be left at the end of each group of candidates as many blank spaces as there are persons to be elected to the office of electors.

A voter who desires to vote for an entire group of candidates for electors shall place a cross mark X in the square at the right of the party or political designation above such group for which he marks; and such cross mark shall count as a vote for all the candidates in such group.

If a voter does not desire to vote for a candidate in the group for which he marks, he may erase the name of such candidate, and the cross mark X shall count as a vote for all the other candidates in such group.

When a voter desires to vote for another person, in place of the candidate whose name he has erased, he may insert in one of the blank spaces at the end of the groups of candidates for electors the name of the person of his choice, and place a cross mark X in the square at the right of such name; if the name erased is that of a candidate at large, the other name must be inserted in one of the unnumbered blank spaces; otherwise in the blank space having the same number as the name erased.

A voter who does not vote for any group of candidates, may vote for one or for several candidates for electors by inserting a name or names in one or more of the blank spaces at the end of the group of electors, and placing a cross mark X in the square at the right of each name. The marks against names inserted in the blank spaces shall be counted as now provided by law.—Cape Ann Advertiser.

Good Rules for the Mistress.

When engaging a servant be careful to explain her work to her, and let her understand that the work must be done in your way and not in the way of any former mistress she may have had, and this explanation must be made so that it shall not reflect upon the routine of any other household.

Try and arrange the housework so that each servant may have an opportunity to attend church on Sunday.

When your servants do well encourage them to do better by a few words of praise.

Do not allow them to have visitors until after certain hours in the evening.

Give your orders for the day to the cook as early in the morning as possible.

Insist upon being informed when anything is broken or lost.

See that the chambermaid wears a clean apron while making the beds, and that she knocks at the bedroom doors before entering.

Order the maid who opens the door not to leave visitors standing in the hall, nor to give parcels to strangers without previous instruction.

When you reprove, do so firmly and decidedly.

Only allow your rules to be broken once; let dismissal, with customary notice follow the second offence.

Retain your temper under all circumstances.

Insist upon the punctuality of the family as well as upon the punctuality of the cook.

Be kind to your servants when they are ill, and thoughtful of them always; in nine cases out of ten the considerate mistress will be rewarded by faithful service.

Pay your servants' wages regularly. Do not allow them to go out without first obtaining your permission.—The Ladies' Home Journal for April.

The Good Derived from
HOOD'S
SarsaparillaAll Run Dyspepsia
Down With

The peculiar combination of stomach tonics and alterative remedies in Hood's Sarsaparilla cannot be equalled, and this superiority explains the wonderful success of

in cases of Dyspepsia, Indigestion and similar troubles. Mr. T. A. Wheelock, a well known citizen of Burlington, Vt., writes:

"Six months ago I was badly run down and unable to attend to business. The principal trouble seemed to be due to indigestion and aggravated dyspepsia. I had no appetite,

Nothing Tasted Good
and what I did eat distressed me. Added to this was a nervous disturbance. Physicians that I employed failed to reach my case. I grew worse, lost flesh and almost hope. One day I ran across a testimonial for Hood's Sarsaparilla stating what it had done in what seemed to be a case similar to mine. I got a bottle and in three or four days saw that I felt better. Before I had finished the first bottle, was greatly improved. Rested better, felt better, and knew I was

Better All Over

I continued with the medicine, and have taken two bottles and now feel better than at any time for the past five years. Feel as hearty as when a boy. Have regained my flesh, have good appetite, can sleep well, and my nerves are in excellent condition. I would not value a thousand dollars for what it did for me." T. A. WHEELLOCK, Burlington, Vt.

Fully Indorsed

"We have sold Mr. T. A. Wheelock several bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and have heard him tell in high terms of commendation what it has done for him. I know that he has recommended to many others here. Our customers generally speak well of it." F. L. TART & CO., Pharmacists, Burlington, Vt.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1892.

The tragic death of Mr. Rustin, of Yale College will more than ever bring the minds of parents to bear and think on the silliness and dangerousness of such performances. He received his fatal injury while being initiated into a secret society. Blindfolded he was sent down the street and run into the pole of a carriage, from the effects of which he died in great agony. Two of the societies at Yale including this one have voted to abolish such initiations, and others which have not should do so, or be abolished themselves.

We are glad to know that our representative James B. Smith voted against referring the Bennett Endowment bill to the next General Court, as it was voted to do Wednesday. The result of this will be to throw the question into hands of unscrupulous managers of the endowment orders. The bill provided for the winding up of the affairs of endowment orders, the character of which has been very fully exposed during the past year. If we mistake not, public sentiment is largely against allowing them to transact such business under the cover of the law, and it would seem that the vote of the Legislature was against such sentiment. Those who have upheld this measure will certainly commend themselves to the favor of the business people of the state.

To the shame of the Massachusetts legislators be it said, the endowment orders in our state are to be allowed a continued existence. No act in the present session will be so universally condemned by the common sense people of Massachusetts, as this will be. The end of all of these organizations it is not difficult to see, but the deplorable thing at this time is that Massachusetts should legalize a swindle, known to be as gigantic as the various combined endowment orders have now become. Andover as well as every other city and town in our commonwealth has many victims of several of the already defunct orders, and no words are too bitter for these men to use against the officials who have grown rich on the misrepresentation that they have made to the many too easily gulled.

Sometime ago a well known citizen said to the TOWNSMAN reporter, "I wish you would walk around and take a look at our streets, and see how they are disfigured by the throwing around of refuse matter." When the following article was brought to our attention, it seemed to speak better than we could on this question:

It is not easy to teach neatness to grown men and women; but it is possible to instill into children a horror of the anti-social practice, which helps a great deal to disfigure and vulgarize our cities, of throwing down refuse of whatever nature—peanut shells, bits of paper, ends of cigarettes and cigars, old shoes, hats, ashes, saliva, or other excretions—in places frequented by or seen by one's fellow-citizens, such as streets, roads, lanes, sidewalks, public stairways, etc. Our indifference to this practice, which appears to be the result of a long familiarity, is intolerable to foreigners. It disappeared from every European country completely fully one hundred years ago. It is now found nowhere in the Eastern hemisphere except in Turkish or other Mussulman towns and cities, and is looked upon as a sign of a low civilization. It is considered in every European city a grievous offense against a man's neighbors to make any public display of filth, or to sit down quietly in the presence of filth or rubbish of any description. A horror of it might be taught to any child in the public schools by an average teacher. To instill it should be one of a teacher's first duties, for it must be remembered that the chief observable superiority of the civilized man over the savage lies in the greater cleanliness of his person and dwelling. No child should leave the public schools without having a dread of refuse ground into him. He should be taught to hate the sight of unclean streets or sidewalks, of saliva-stained marble, of ashes or other refuse of every description, and especially of bits of newspapers and ends of cigars, as signs of gross selfishness and a low social tone.—Nation.

Such management has the appearance at least of being a trifle "loose, illegal, and slipshod." In short, there seems to be in the legal basis and economy of this school a sort of compound-double-acting-shifting movement which accommodates itself to the exigencies of the occasion, either of a "private" or of a "public" school as the will of the Trustees may elect. Will Mr. Poor please inform the readers of the TOWNSMAN whether the Lowell opinion has reference to "public schools" or to the Panchard school in particular? CITIZEN.

The Panchard School again.

Mr. Editor:

It is quite natural that one who is a graduate of the Panchard School, and who has long been one of its honored and active Trustees, should come to its rescue when he finds it assailed by what he thinks is adverse criticism. "Citizen" was therefore pleased to read in the last TOWNSMAN Justice Poor's view of the legal position which that school occupies to the town of Andover. I believe there is no other wish on the part of a single person in town than to know precisely the grounds on which this school stands related to its inhabitants; whether, indeed, they have any rights in this matter which they have not yet been permitted to exercise. Our selectmen it seems were in doubt, or they would not have sought eminent legal counsel on the subject. Let us then have all the light we can get.

Now while law is regarded generally as full of subtle intricacies, the words of the English language are tolerably plain to those who have been accustomed to speak that tongue. And when one reads the Lowell opinion which says "That there has been no action on the part of the town which would prevent the school committee from exercising its authority of charge and supervision over the school which is provided for in the Public Statutes," the natural inference must be, that the School Committee of Andover, had certain rights of charge and supervision over this school which it had not yet exercised. In one part of his communication Mr. Poor admits that the opinion of the legal gentlemen is correct, but he attempts to beg the mind of the reader by saying that the Panchard school was not a "public school," as though the Lowell opinion had reference to public schools in general. But the opinion says "over the school." Over what school? Why, of course, over the Panchard school. There was no need that our Selectmen should go to Lowell to find out whether our School Committee could exercise authority and supervision over our common public schools. They knew that before. But the Lowell opinion is speaking expressly of the school, that is, the school to which it had particular reference in the decision. Neither is there any sense or meaning in saying that there has been no action on the part of the town which would prevent the School Committee from exercising its authority of charge and supervision over the school which is "provided for in the Public Statutes," unless the School Committee do actually have certain rights in the premises. To say that the town has done nothing to prevent the exercise of those rights very clearly implies that these rights exist.

And yet if this Lowell opinion is correct it necessarily sets aside the will of Mr. Panchard. These two things seem to be in direct antagonism with each other. But law, courts, and legislatures are always above wills, and Mr. Panchard's will, at this late day, is not beyond the danger of being made void. And if it conflicts with the genius of our republican institutions, with the spirit and purpose of our common school system, or with the constitutional rights of any of our citizens, no one, even in Andover, ought to be found defending it. The "grand work" the school has done and the number of its "loyal graduates" is wholly irrelevant to the question under consideration. I very much mistake the people of Andover, if they desire in any way to profit from an institution in their town that has no sound legal basis, and the supervision of which conflicts with the rights of any of its fellow-citizens.

Mr. Poor affects to believe that there has been no "loose, illegal, or slipshod" management in regard to this school. Has the gentleman forgotten that while the law expressly required that the Trustees should make an annual report of the work and condition of the Panchard school to the town, yet for over thirty years not a single report of this kind was ever made? How much longer that neglect would have continued had not the attention of the Trustees been called to it by a member of the School Committee, is uncertain.

Such management has the appearance at least of being a trifle "loose, illegal, and slipshod." In short, there seems to be in the legal basis and economy of this school a sort of compound-double-acting-shifting movement which accommodates itself to the exigencies of the occasion, either of a "private" or of a "public" school as the will of the Trustees may elect. Will Mr. Poor please inform the readers of the TOWNSMAN whether the Lowell opinion has reference to "public schools" or to the Panchard school in particular? CITIZEN.

Phillips Andover again in the Front.

For the third consecutive time the Phillips Andover representatives did up their New Hampshire rivals at Exeter last Saturday afternoon in the annual competition in field and track athletics. The weather was clear and cool and the track in a good condition. Quite a number of the Academy boys and also several interested Andover people were present and saw their favorites win.

First place in each event counted five points, second three, and third one, and on this basis Andover won 54 to 36, taking six firsts to four for Exeter. Both school records were broken in the pole vault, half-mile, mile run and hurdle races. Each school had two contestants in each event.

Sayer won the 100 yards for Exeter in 10.4-5s., Wormelsdorf and Hall, both of Andover, second and third.

Andover took first and second in the pole vault, Sheldon breaking the records with 9 ft. 5.1-2s. Sayer won the 220 handsly in 24s., Marshall of Exeter second, Clarke of Andover third.

Davis won the half-mile for Andover in 2m. 4.2-5s., Arnold of Exeter second. Each contestant broke both school records. Third place fell to Exeter.

Sheldon won the running high jump for Andover with 5ft. 7.1-4in., Sayer and Connor of Exeter tying for second and third.

Andover took first and second in putting the shot, Foley winning with 34ft. 11in., tying best school record. Coyne of Exeter put 35 ft. 3.1-2 in., but the claim was made that he did not put fairly, and the protest was allowed.

The mile run was closely contested. The quarter was done in 70s., the half in 2m. 24.3-4s. At the very finish Hollister of Exeter spurred, winning in 4 m. 40s., with the Andover men, Francis and Robinson, second and third. Exeter's record was lowered 15s., Andover's 7.

Whitehead of Exeter won the 120 high hurdles in 18.2-5s., breaking both school records. Second and third places fell to Sheldon and Armstrong of Andover.

Andover won eight points in the 44 yards, Clarke winning in 53s., which tied the best school record. Lapham second.

Sheldon of Andover won the running broad jump with 19ft. 10.1-2 in. Sayer of Exeter and Thompson of Andover tied at 19ft. 3 in. and divided the points.

More Gifts to Abbot Academy.

Since the acknowledgement of donations, made in the TOWNSMAN of Jan. 23, 1891, Abbot Academy has received gifts which were gladly put upon record in the following list:

From Mrs. George W. Coburn, to found the Andover scholarship, two thousand dollars.

From Mrs. John Byers, toward the Jackson Memorial Library, one thousand dollars.

A handsome book-case for this library from Mrs. Byers and Mrs. Coburn.

From Hon. Dexter Richards, toward payment of debt incurred by building Draper Hall, five hundred dollars.

From Mrs. Frederic S. Newcomb of New London, Ct., the decoration of the walls and ceiling of the guests' vestibule, Draper Hall.

To O. D. Cheney, M.D., who gave us the proceeds of his lecture upon the Passion Play, and to two other friends, we are indebted for the two rugs worth seventy-eight dollars which are in the guests' vestibule.

From Mr. Edward Taylor, the decoration of the walls and ceiling of the Trustees' room.

Waste basket for the same room from Mrs. M. A. Richards.

To Mrs. Sarah Barrows Dummer we are indebted for the decoration of the walls and ceiling of the Seniors' Parlor and a handsome wood basket for the "McKeen Rooms."

From Mrs. James B. Smith, the decoration of the walls and ceiling of the "Old Scholars' Room", and also a fine etching by Appian for the same room.

From Mr. E. H. Barnard, fifteen dollars toward wall decoration.

From Mrs. George Washington Scott, a copy of Webster's Unabridged International Dictionary.

From the class of St. Mrs. Oliphant's "Makers of Venice," Just's "Velasquez and his Times," "Reynard the Fox," illustrated by Kaulbach, and "Our National Cathedrals," in three volumes.

For the suite of Music Rooms a life-sized portrait of Lillian E. Holbrook from Mrs. Charles F. Olney of Cleveland, Ohio.

From the class of '92, two of Fra Angelico's angels, reproduced in colors, by the Arundel Society,—in carved gilt frames.

A sketch by Corot, from Mr. Mortimer B. Mason, for the studios.

A picture from Miss Welsh for the memorial guest room.

A large and valuable rug for the Reading Room from Mrs. Henry B. F. McFarland—Daisy Douglass—of Washington, D. C.

Abbot Academy Items.

Miss Laura Watson of St. Johnsbury, the new Principal of Abbot Academy, is expected to be present at the Lawn Party and graduating exercises next week. She will be the guest of Mrs. Professor Taylor.

The Trustees of Abbot are to be congratulated on the Greek Instructor who has just been secured for their College Preparatory Course. Miss Hutchison was graduated at the head of her class in Monmouth College, Ill., in 1881. In her Alma Mater and subsequently as Professor in Albert Lea College, Minnesota, she has distinguished herself in the triple field of Latin, Greek and Philosophy. Few persons are better qualified to cooperate with the teachers of the Old Faculty and with the new Principal, in fitting girls for Wellesley and other American colleges.

Base Ball.

Andover teams were victorious all around last Saturday afternoon. The Y. A. C., which is composed principally of Panchard scholars, journeyed to Reading and defeated the High School nine there by a score of 8 to 6 in a well played game. The battery work of Bailey and Birnie was very effective.

On the same afternoon the Tye Rubber Company nine and Morton Street team, which is one of the leaders in the Academy street contest, were battling for supremacy. The former finally came out on top, the score being 12 to 9. E. McNally was a puzzle to up-town boys, while their pitchers, Ames and Pardee, were batted hard.

The Phillips Academy nine also put another game to their credit by defeating the Stars of Lawrence for the third successive time this season, the score being 4 to 3. Baigis pitched a great game for Phillips. Clucher also pitched well for the Stars, but their fielding was very ragged at times.

Cricket.

The crack Lowell team, said to be the strongest aggregation of cricketers but one in the state, came to Andover Saturday afternoon with a determination to give the Andover eleven a good square drubbing. They did succeed in winning, but it was a small hole through which they crawled to victory and they were much disappointed. The game was in doubt until the last man was put out. Lowell went to the bat first against the bowling of Walker and McGlynn, and when 9 wickets had fallen for 24 runs, Andover enthusiasts began to feel encouraged, but Burns then batted hard for 22 runs making the score 43.

There was still a good chance for Andover but the Lowell bowlers were also on their mettle, and Saunders and Bruce only were able to make any stand, the former's 19 being grand playing. The game was a splendid one, both sides fielding and bowling superbly. John Walker, formerly of the Albions, played with Andover for the first time and bowled finely.

W. H. Higgins will drive a tally-ho party to Baldpate, Georgetown, to-night, consisting of prominent young men and ladies.

J. R. Smith of the Seminary will preach at the Memorial Church in Georgetown again next Sunday.

An ecclesiastical council composed of pastors and delegates, chiefly within the Andover conference, of which Rev. M. M. Dana of Lowell was moderator, reported favorably Wednesday night upon the installation of Rev. George H. Johnson, formerly of Georgetown, as pastor of the John Street Congregational Church of Lowell, and the installation occurred in the presence of a large audience.

Quarterly Meeting.

The Andover Union of Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor held its quarterly meeting in the vestry of the Free Church, Tuesday evening. It was an enthusiastic and interesting meeting, being quite largely attended by representatives from all five sections. President D. W. Carney of North Andover presided.

After singing and reading of scripture by Rev. J. J. Blair, the report of the secretary, Miss Annie L. Sargent of North Andover, was read and accepted. Then the Free Church choir rendered a selection in an excellent manner, after which President Carney said that instead of having some special address the Union would rely on its own resources for this meeting, and he announced as the topic to be considered practical by the following: "Has Experience shown that Our Societies are doing what they ought to do, and are they covering the Ground in reaching the Young People of the Community; if not what New Lines of Work should be taken up to attain this result?" Members from the different societies were called upon and among those who took part were: J. Newton Cole, M. Lizzie Upton and Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free Church; Samuel Ward, Fred P. Berry, and Rev. J. J. Blair of the South; F. S. Boutwell, W. A. Trow and Rev. F. W. Greene of the West; D. H. Poor, William Shaw, and Ralph Ross of Ballardvale; Miss Elizabeth Saunders and Rev. H. H. Leavitt of North Andover.

The general answer to the first part of the question seemed to be in the negative, and to the second that no new lines of work were needed, but more conscientious and thorough work on the plans as originally laid out.

A short social session brought this, one of the best meetings the Union has held, to a close.

Frye Village.

Miss Agnes G. Smith was one of the graduates at Bradford Academy Wednesday, when the usual commencement exercises took place.

A meeting is to be held in Smith Hall next Tuesday evening, to make preliminary plans for the annual Smith & Dove picnic.

BROWNIE IN POLITICS.

Brownie has not yet returned from his search for a road engineer, but reports progress and thinks that by the time all the road money is expended one may be found.

Just before he went away, Brownie visited several men who delight to talk politics; but quickly he became so fully stuffed up with the nonsensical talk that he became sick and disgusted and would have fainted but for a cool glass of soda with whipped cream.

The first visit was on a well known gentleman who inhabits the rear lower room of the Town House. "I knew," said Brownie, "that he had always been a staunch Harrison man, and when I said, 'Of course you expect Harrison will be nominated,' to my great surprise he answered, 'No, I hope not.' After a good deal of maneuvering I found out that all his faith in Harrison had been shattered by the signing of the Chinese exclusion bill.

"It was a good political move, wasn't it," said I.

"Yes, perhaps; but I can't stand this doing contrary to your own sense of right."

"Whom do you want," I asked, "Blaine?"

"No sir, Tom Reed. He's the man."

With this Brownie vanished and then called on one who is on the other side of the fence. He was busy cutting some all wool and a yard wide cloth, but, as usual, was ready for a political chat.

"It looks like Blaine," said he, "for the Republican nominee, but it makes no difference who it is, he will be laid low by that hustler, Grover Cleveland."

I laughed right in his face, but he said,

"It is so, Brownie, just as sure as the day comes round, and I will stake hundreds on it, and I hope that as soon as he gets in he will give every Republican who receives a salary from the government his ticket of leave."

"Of course," said I, "to the victor belongs the spoils," and I suppose you will be after some of the spoils.

"Well I guess!" was the reply, and with a laugh I left him to dream over his bright anticipations. Perchance it is Postmaster, he meant.

A trip through Carter's Block revealed that nobody but Blaine would do for the Republicans there. On his way back to the office Brownie ran across an Orangeman who was in a heated discussion with a descendant of Ireland, but an educated gentleman and a Blaine man, and he was determined to find out the cause; but as soon as he landed on the politics. The latter said, "Did you see that article in the papers which said that 1,250,000 Orange men would not vote for Blaine if he is nominated?"

"Yes," said the Irish Republican, "but, by heavens! there are 3,000,000 Irishmen who will vote for him." This broke the Orangeman's heart and he fled, and Brownie thought he had had enough for one morning so he disappeared.

BALLARDVALE.

The next band concert will be given Wednesday evening. The temporary stand has been enlarged and electric lights will be placed at each of the four corners of the stand, instead of in the rear as before.

Last Monday was a day of petty accidents. There were three runaways none of which, however, had any serious result, although considerable excitement was caused by two of them. Mr. Hayward's coal shed caught fire, but it was put out before any damage was made. The train due here at 5.50 p.m. struck and killed a cow, the property of C. H. Kibbee. The animal was near its pasture about a quarter of a mile below the station.

M. E. Clemons has been elected a director of the Wakefield and Stoneham Electric Railway.

Nothing has been said about a Fourth of July celebration and it is about time the subject was agitated if at all this year. Our celebrations have been very satisfactory in the past, and there is no reason why they should not be again. It is time to go ahead if at all.

Mrs. Morgan a long resident of this place, widow of the late David A. Morgan, died in Somerville very suddenly last Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held from the Union Church Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Bary officiating. The burial was in Lawrence. Pyam D. Morgan now of California is a step-son to Mrs. Morgan. A sister residing in Boston is the only near relative.

H. S. Neal and Elmer H. Shattuck caught a string of forty-two pickerel yesterday, weighing in the aggregate forty pounds.

The members of J. P. Bradlee Engine Co. and of the Cosmopolitan Singing Society decorated the grave of the late Frank R. Deshon, at Spring Grove Cemetery, Decoration Day. He was a member of both organizations.

J. W. Wardwell has been improving his place with an embankment in front, which adds much to the appearance of his grounds.

A children's day concert will be given at the Union Church Sunday, at 6.45. It will also take the place of the usual floral concert, and a good programme will be given.

Saturday was the 58th birthday of Mr. Geo. Steffens, and to celebrate the event he entertained the Cosmopolitan Singing Society at their hall. He provided refreshments and a collation, and an entertainment was given. Prof. Nauman of Lawrence was present and rendered a program of humorous songs, etc. The party broke up at a late hour, and proved a very enjoyable event.

A correction.—The name of T. T. Devine was given as drum major in the Memorial Day procession, but William McKeon of this village acted in that capacity, as he always does, for the Independence Drum Corps.

$15 for $10

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S.D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth I would my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get D. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and colds. I gave it a trial took in all, eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at Arthur Bliss' and H. M. Whitney's Lawrence. Johnny's Opinion.

Who does not remember the blood curdling picture in the old Sunday school books, where the two she bears were devouring the hapless children who had pointed out the excelsior path to Elisha of the high forehead. A few days ago a bright little boy of four, who, though most carefully guarded, sometimes picks up phrases which are the last his parents would have him hear, saw a company of Salvationists pass him with their beating of drums and their odd attire. He hailed them from the doorstep with "Pound it harder, Aunt Thump-Thump! Step higher, Uncle Big Hat." &c.

His grandmother from the country heard and was horrified. She at once proceeded to teach him a lesson in reverence. "Don't you know, Johnny," she said, "that those people are working for the Lord, just as the prophets used to do in old times. It is wicked to make fun of them. Once some children cried out as the prophet Elisha passed, 'Go up, thou baldhead!' and God sent two she bears out of the woods and they ate them all up." Johnny's eyes grew big, and bursting into tears he chilled the pious expectations of his anxious teacher by exclaiming between his sobs, "I—think—it—was—a—blamed—shame!"—Boston Herald.

Her Son John.

Few men have ever combined sternness and inflexibility of purpose with tenderness of heart to such an extraordinary degree as Stonewall Jackson. Of his kindness his widow relates this pleasing example in her biography of her husband:

Near the close of one of his most arduous campaigns an old woman called at his headquarters, and to the amusement of the young staff officers said that she had come to see her son John, who was with "Jackson's company." She was much surprised that they could not tell her where John was, for he had been with "Jackson's company" in all the battles.

Her persistency finally changed the young men's amusement to annoyance; but when General Jackson came in and heard her simple story he listened with as much politeness as if she had been some grand lady, and after gently reproving the young officers for laughing at her, he ordered that every company of his corps should be searched for John, who was at last found, to the inexpressible delight of his loving old mother.

Two Ways of Working.

A gentleman was overlooking a man at work in his grounds, who was emptying a tank by means of a bucket into the drain.

"What a lazy fellow!" he thought. "I could fill that bucket twice to his once." The more he looked the more his indignation increased, until at last he determined to show the man how to do his work. "Are you not ashamed," he asked, "to pour out no more than two or three pails a minute?" The man smiled, but said he could not well do more. "Well, I'll show you what more can be done." So he went to work with great zeal, and poured out six or eight pails a minute.

"Now," he said triumphantly, handing back the pail, "I've taught you a lesson. I hope you will profit by it." "Please your honor," said the man, "would you be kind enough to go on that way another five minutes?" "Why?" "Because I never doubted but six pails could be poured out in a minute, but what I want to know is how long you could go on at that rate!"—Washington Star.

Edam Cheeses in History.

The famous Edam cheeses which grace the table of every well kept hotel and restaurant in the country," said a prominent groceryman of this city. "are often a subject of inquiry as to what they are and whence they come. Their round shape, with that peculiar reddish purple tinge is a marked contrast with all other cheese productions of the world. There is nothing new fashioned about them, for if Colonial tradition is true, Mynheer Peter Heyis, of Edam, Holland, who brought a lot in the hold of his Dutch ship in 1631 to the Delaware river, so tickled the fancy of the Indians with these odd looking articles that he bought a large tract of land, afterward named the 'Valley of the Swans,' from the redskins with a barrel of his Edam cheeses. After the cheese had been devoured the gentle aborigines repented themselves of their rash speculation, and a month later massacred the entire Dutch colony."—Philadelphia Press.

Costumes Not Gaudy Three Centuries Ago.

It is a mistake to imagine that the streets of London in the sixteenth century presented a much more lively appearance than they do at present. The everyday dress of the people, even of the highest rank, was almost invariably made of broadcloth of a sober color, occasionally enlivened with velvet and smart ribbons. It was only on state occasions or festivities, parties, balls and public entertainments that the gay silks and velvets and the cloth of gold were exhibited, and it must be remembered that so costly were the materials which could then be employed in male or female dress that not unfrequently parents left their best clothes by will to their favorite children as a much valued legacy.

OBSERVATORY.

Abbot Lawn Party. Rich Men's early struggle with Poverty. Absurd changes in old Hymns.

The coming Lawn Party to be held at Abbot Academy will be a particularly interesting occasion to the Alumnae and their friends; they will assemble not only to enjoy together the pleasant grounds and to "reminisce," but to say farewell to the esteemed and faithful principal who has guided so many of them safely through that eventful period—four years of school life. Since the last successful Lawn Party the fine new building with almost perfect equipments has been added. The value of this commanding hall cannot be too highly estimated, and the girls of coming years will remember thankfully that it was mainly through the thought and unremitting toil of Miss McKen that the Academy has such a much needed gift added to its endowments. On account of her careful study of every detail, the arrangement of the interior is not only an ideal habitation for comfort and profit, but is pleasing to the artistic eye. This last is no small consideration when we remember that the beauty of many homes depends on the inspiration gained by the young women in the surroundings of their school life; wisdom in all things is the unwritten motto of Abbot Academy.

In visiting the new building as everyone will wish to do, who will not exclaim at the many loving gifts made by the Alumnae to beautify the rooms, showing the strong attachment to their Alma Mater. Beginning at the top we will mention a few of the attractions. We find a well-lighted and airy studio with a fine selection of casts, and music rooms so arranged that the sound will not be distracting to the quiet of the study hours; the girl's parlors are large, well-ventilated, and home-like, while the handsomely furnished guest-chamber, a generous gift, is much admired. Our attention was particularly arrested by some fine Parisian casts, and one might travel far before seeing any more interesting and valuable. Among these casts for adornment is one superb column in the reception room, a beautiful piece of workmanship, and the girls say that the exquisite faces of the Madonna and child in the reading-room is like a benediction. Space will not allow of further detail, but the Observer ventures to predict that the afternoon of June 13th will be an eventful red-letter day in the annals of Abbot Academy.

A capital illustration of the absurd changes made in the text of good old hymns, to suit the modern rhapsodies, is given in the following story. The familiar hymn was one of those selected for the following Sunday worship at a church in Pittsfield. The choir-master was especially anxious to introduce some new and pleasing music, but as the words of the hymn did not fit the melody, he was in a quandary; he decided to ask the minister if he had any objection to his making a slight change in the text thus:

"O, may my heart in tune be found
Like David's harp of sacred sound,"

"O may my heart be tuned within Like David's sacred violin."

The minister considered a moment and then asked if he would not like this version:

"O, may my heart go diddle diddle
Like uncle David's sacred fiddle."

There are many men of wealth who like to be reminded of their early struggle with poverty, and so keep a memento in the instrument which helped them to success. A former Philadelphian, now one of the richest residents Montevideo, preserves with almost religious reverence a battered old boat; forty years ago he was wrecked off Montevideo and barely escaped with his life. Fortunately one of the ship's boats was cast up on the shore near him, and as he possessed absolutely nothing else, he used it for ferrying passengers across the harbor. This small beginning laid the foundation of his present great wealth, and so the precious old boat is still floating on an artificial lake on his private park, said to be one of the finest in South America; it lies there in speaking contrast to a handsome bronze fountain that showers water upon it. Nearer home we find a similar memento preserved in the family of Governor Ames on one of their large estates at Easton. Every one who visits the beautiful grounds with its quaint porter's lodge, the long reaches of closely cut lawn, fine trees, bosky dells, and clear streams spanned by wee bridges—will have pointed out to them as the most interesting object of their possessions the rough board hut where the first shovels were forged; the manufacturing of this common article in a perfect manner—except it was as perfect in every detail as could be made—was the talisman through which the goddess of Fortune showers her gifts upon the makers; a good Fortune it was not only to them but to their servants, for they have used that wealth entrusted to them to make the little manufacturing village beautiful with a green rocky in the centre, a pretty and spacious chapel, a good library, all in the finest architectural form, and in numerous other ways softened the hard paths in the monotonous lives of thousands of working people.

President Harrison is not easily disconcerted on state occasions, but they do say that Hassan Ben Ali, the world's fair commissioner from Morocco, in an interview at the White House, last week, prostrated himself in true oriental fashion and refused to rise until the President had left the room. President Harrison hardly knew how to deal with his visitor. He is not accustomed to address words of welcome to the floor.

The Mechanics' band has been engaged to furnish music at the station of the Lawrence ice cream company, on East Haverhill street, some time next week.

On account of the narrowness of Clarendon street, the road commissioners have decided to widen a portion of the road.

Hon. and Mrs. M. T. Stevens have returned from Washington.

Work on the Maple Avenue sewer has been commenced.

The following lines are original with a North Andover young girl of thirteen years:

A COUNTRY FAIR.
Away off in a country town
A rare thing is a fair,
And every one from far and near
Is to be seen there.

There are women with their babies;
There are farmers, big and small;
There are children—some, in fact,
Who are too young to walk at all.

There are women with big bonnets,
There are women slim and tall,
There are women short and dumpy,
With their families and all.

There are tables filled with candy,
There are tables filled with cake,
There are many kinds of goodies
To make little stomachs ache.

There are at the last some dances
Which would make you and me grin,
But which seem to the country people
The glory of the whole thing.

And now you have a little sketch
Of a country fair;
And I hope that sometime I may
Be able to meet you there.

Co. L. will go to camp at South Framingham, July 11.

Mr. J. H. D. Smith has disposed of his residence on Pembroke St., Boston, where he has lived for about twenty years.

Mr. Morrison and family of Boston are at their summer residence on Andover St.

Charles Shearer, son of Mr. Hugh Shearer, died very suddenly and unexpectedly of rheumatism, at his home on Middlesex Street last Saturday, aged 27 years. He was born in Scotland, coming to this country about four years ago. For about two years he had been employed as clerk and book-keeper in the office of Humphrey Bros., wood and coal dealers of Lawrence, discharging his duties there faithfully and conscientiously. Deceased was also a stenographer, and in the practice of writing short-hand was quite proficient. He leaves, besides his parents, three sisters and three brothers, one of whom resides in Glasgow. Funeral services were held at the house, Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. McAvoy of the United Presbyterian Church of Lawrence attending. The bearers were Messrs. John and David Biddle, Walter and Fred Spurr. Interment at Ridgewood Cemetery.

Capt. Reeves officially assigned Lieut. Forbes to duty, Monday evening.

Oliver Stevens Esq. and family of Boston returned to their summer residence the latter part of last week.

Miss Lucy Hovey of Lynn was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holt last Sunday.

The Andover Orchestra, O. P. Chase leader, is to furnish the music at the J. H. S. reception, July 1.

Mr. Charles Tucker is soon to take the examination preparatory to entering the Institute of Technology, Sept. 1.

Mr. Percy Bartlett, from Bowdoin College, is visiting his brother, Principal Bartlett of J. H. S.

Preparations are being made for the opening of the Charlotte Home very soon.

Mr. A. D. Blanchard and family are to spend the summer months with Mrs. Ellen Nutting, at the Centre.

A Boston photographer was in town during this week obtaining photographs of historic dwelling-houses.

Mrs. Irving Winslow of Boston gave some very fine dramatic readings at the Charitable Union Rooms, Thursday afternoon, under the auspices of the Roundabout Club.

Pupils will be examined for admission to the Johnson High School Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, June 21 and 22, at 2 o'clock, in the High School room.

READ THIS!
O SUFFERING WOMEN!

Mrs. Eva I. Fowler resides at Hampden Centre, Me., and as the bright October sun shone upon her face, glowing with health, as she stood upon the piazza of her little cottage, it was hard to realize that only a few months ago she was hastening towards the grave as fast as disease could do its fell work. Listen to the story she told us:—

"I am now twenty-one years old, and last winter I found myself failing rapidly. My side and back were so lame it hurt me to breathe. I felt tired and dragged out all the time, and could get upstairs only with great difficulty. I had a very bad cough. My appetite failed me, and after eating the lightest food I would have terrible distress at the pit of the stomach. I could not sleep. Night after night I would have to get up and sit up after one o'clock until morning. I tried Cod Liver Oil and other medicines, but received no benefit. But I am happy to say, TWO BOTTLES OF DANA'S SARSAPARILLA CURED ME COMPLETELY."

A positive cure for diseases peculiar to women. GUARANTEED TO CURE. Don't Suffer. Get a bottle now.
